News 2018 digest:

Merkel's Government Avoids Collapse Over Migrant Battle, at Least for Now

German Chancellor Angela Merkel secured a two-week reprieve in her confrontation with her coalition partner, averting at least temporarily avoiding a collapse of her government over migrants.

EU Pursues Trade Talks With Australia in Wake of U.S. Tariffs

The European Union and Australia launched free-trade negotiations Monday, part of a push by U.S. allies world-wide to bolster economic links and counter fallout from President Donald Trump's "America First" policies.

Japan Views China as Ally in Trump Trade Fight

Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe, after years of skirmishing with China over territory and security, is now promoting a rapprochement with Beijing that reflects Tokyo's need for allies in upholding the postwar free-trading system amid President Donald Trump's tough line on trade.

The Force Behind Europe's Populist Tide: Frustrated Youth

Struggling to find jobs, and often living at home, younger generations are propelling antiestablishment parties to new heights of power. The revolt helped create Western Europe's first populist government, in Italy, and threatens to rear its head across the south.

Pro-Business Ivan Duque Wins Colombian Presidency

The 41-year-old lawyer who spent much of his working life in Washington policy circles was elected in a vote in which Colombians were presented with two starkly different approaches for modernizing the country.

Barricades and Empty Streets: Nicaragua's Leader Loses Control

Since a revolt broke out two months ago, President Daniel Ortega has lost control over most of the country.

Oil's Rally, Coupled With Strong Dollar, Causes Global Pain

The sharp rise in crude-oil prices has been particularly harsh for many parts of the world, because consumers outside the U.S. face a double whammy when the dollar gets stronger at the same time that oil prices climb.

Introducing North Macedonia, a European Nation Rebranded

Macedonia will rename itself "North Macedonia" as part of a landmark agreement with Greece aimed at ending a 27-year-old dispute between the two countries.

Japan Earthquake Kills Three, Injures Hundreds

The magnitude 6.1 earthquake also disrupted transportation and halted factory lines in the Japanese city of Osaka, where many exporters have their headquarters.
